Mission Moment

“I am walking upon the earth with people who love me on the circle of our Creator. I will always be at home. I will be loved. I will be with our Creator.”

These are the words from the Shawnee traveling song in our United Methodist Book of Worship.

Today is Native American Ministries Sunday and we celebrate being together as children of God and the contributions of our Native American brothers and sisters who worship among us.

The outreach we assist offers encouragement, support and belonging to people who often feel invisible. The ministries we support provide places where Native American identity in Christ has room to coexist, allowing their unique voice and story of God’s grace and love to be told.

Our gifts go to ministries that provide outreach and education and support Native American leaders with seminary scholarships. Our gifts empower people to do ministry in an authentic way that connects with our Native American brothers and sisters.

Today, on Native American Ministries Sunday, we share a special churchwide offering in order to stand in partnership as we practice and worship together because we recognize that we are children of one God who created us all.
