Mission Moment

Thirty years ago, the General Conference of The United Methodist Church voted unanimously to found and fund Africa University, an institution that would become the first privately recognized university in Zimbabwe. Africa University has tailored its programs to equip students to address food security, improve public health, peace, good governance and sustain economic growth.

Africa University continues to be an institution for all of Africa representing 28 countries. Through the training and education received at the University, students are empowered to become leaders who will make a change and strengthen their communities.

The Africa University Fund is one of United Methodism's seven church wide apportionments. Our gifts have trained over 8,000 leaders who are committed to core values of academic excellence, integrity, diversity and being God-fearing.

Our gifts are a mark of our faithfulness to Africa University and the ministry of growing and developing leaders in their academic pursuits as well as in their Christian faith, making an impact on the entire African continent.
